Hi s 22

I've spoken to Ryan about the release of the Star Ratings and he'd like to delay for a few more weeks to allow time to brief a new Minister. Can you send the below email out today to all the relevant stakeholders (provider CEOs, DES EL2s, DGB, etc.)

Dear CEO

March 2022 Disability Employment Services (DES) Star Ratings

Further to the email on 16 May, please be advised that the release of the Star Ratings will be delayed for at least a few more weeks.

While the outcome of the election is known, the Department of Social Services won't have a Minister appointed until next week and it'll be at least another few weeks after that before we have the opportunity to provide briefing about the Star Ratings.

As outlined in the original email, the delay is not as a result of any issues with the March 2022 DES Star Ratings – they are ready to go.

Thank you for your patience. As soon as we have a confirmed release date we'll let you know.

If you require additional information or further assistance regarding DES Star Ratings, please email DESStar@dss.gov.au.

Dear CEO,

March 2022 Disability Employment Services (DES) Star Ratings

Please note that the March 2022 DES Star Ratings will not be released today. DSS would like to apologise for the late notice, however the decision to delay was only made today.

The delay is not as a result of any issues with the March 2022 DES Star Ratings, they are ready to go. The later release is due to the current political climate.

As soon as we have a new release date we'll let you know.

If you require additional information or further assistance regarding DES Star Ratings, please email DESStar@dss.gov.au.
